Sayyid Al-Hakeem Meets Al-Mada’in Dignitaries: Broad Elections Participation to Guarantee National Stability

Sayyid Al-Hakeem, Head of the National State Powers' Alliance, met Saturday morning, October 11, 2025, with a group of elders and dignitaries from Al-Mada’in District. During the meeting, and after listening to participants’ remarks, His Eminence stressed the importance of preserving achievements and not allowing them to be lost, explaining that upholding accomplishments is an expression of gratitude for Allah’s blessings, and gratitude brings increase.

H.E. stated that the upcoming challenge lies in improving services, attracting investments, enhancing the economic reality, and creating job opportunities, emphasizing that these priorities should lead the next stage. H.E. noted that protecting achievements requires electing competent, qualified, and honest representatives, warning against the influence of political money that could tilt the balance between political forces, and reaffirming that real national projects will begin after November 11.

H.E. called for broad, active, and conscious participation in the elections to strengthen the axis of moderation and centrism, which would safeguard Iraq against both internal and external crises. H.E. also underscored the need to intensify efforts in the remaining period before the elections and to maintain continuous communication with the public, noting that the true measure of success lies in accomplishing the mission and achieving results at the highest level.

H.E. concluded by affirming that participation in the elections serves as a guarantee for the rights of both participants and nonparticipants alike.
